Resource Persons:

1. Prof. (Dr.) Soumyendu Chatterjee, Dept. of Geography, Presidency University, Kolkata.
2. Prof. (Dr.) Nilanjana Das (Chatterjee), Dept. of Geography, Vidyasagar University (WB).

Outcome of the Seminar:

India exhibits a wide diversity of temperatures as per its geographical location. Climate change effect is one of the major issues of our country. The Himalayas participate in warming by preventing the cold winds from blowing in, and the Thar Desert attracts the summer monsoon winds, which are responsible for making the majority of the monsoon season of India. However, the majority of the regions can be considered climatically tropical. Regional effect of the climate is now most effective for future climate projection. The conducted seminar detected an aim to understand the regional climatic effect present as well as future. The participants were two in categories like listeners and paper presenters. All the presented papers were related to the main title of the seminar. Prof, Dr. Soumendu Chatterjee has delivered his lecture on Regional climatic change and its effects on major rivers
